Born in London 15th December 1731
Baron Maseres[^] held the now long extinct office (19 May 1824)
of Cursitor Baron from 1773 till his death[^] - a length of tenure said to be without parallel in the law. His association with Canada dates from an earlier period, from 1766 to 1769, when he was Attorney-General of Quebec. This office he filled with so much dignity and zeal that on his return to England he was requested by the Protestant settlers of Quebec to act as their agent at home. While in Quebec he took keen interest in Canadian questions and several of his memorandum on legal and constitutional affairs are printed in the official documents relating to constitutional history published in 1907 at Ottawa as part of the Canadian Archives. But, although
